8 smart ways to beautify your bath

1. Take a stand

If the space on your pedestal sink isn't cutting it, consider placing this chic butler's tray with an easy-to-clean white lacquer top beside it. When not in use, its removable top and folding base quickly stow away.

Meurice Butler Tray Table, $595; jonathanadler.com

2. Stick 'em up

Eager to try a new look but unsure if you want to commit? No problem! These self-adhesive vinyl wallcoverings are easy to apply and remove; the washable, mildew-resistant surface makes them ideal for a powder room.

Ocean Aqua Stripe Wallcovering, from $22 per roll (3" by 96"), and Crab Net and Monkey Knot Wallcoverings, from $490 per roll (52" by 96"), The Karen Robertson Collection; casartcoverings.com

3. Dish it out

Place a handful of sea glass between the bar and dish to keep soap from sitting in its own suds—and to add a hint of pretty color to the room.

Oval Glass Soap Dish, $9; crateandbarrel.com

4. Show off your stash

Turn an absence of under-sink storage into a reason to display your bath products proudly. Clear apothecary jars with vintage-style zinc lids are perfect for extra cotton balls, soaps, and sponges. For a pretty design accent, try filling one with shells.

Pharmacy Zinc and Glass Jars, $19–$39 each; restorationhardware.com

5. Stow away

Bring instant nautical style to your space with a woven basket (also available in orange or navy) with rope detailing and a replaceable lid that easily stores extra towels or linens.

Rope Hamper in White, $98; serenaandlily.com >
